

1 ABSTRACT

2 A client device receives a request to display a program guide. After
3 identifying program schedule information, the client device generates a scrolling
4 program guide and communicates the scrolling program guide to a display device.
5 The program guide may contain the program schedule information as well as 6 additional information targeted to a user of the client device.